Dear Doctor,

My Group is the United Kingdom body concerned with Information Technology for doctors working in primary care (ambulatory care). As part of the British Computer Society we are members of IMIA.

We are hoping to encourage co-operation and development of primary care computing internationally. We are proposing two activities:

- a. A workshop on primary care (ambulatory care) computing at Medinfo 89 in Beijing. We have provisional agreement from the programme committee.

I would be grateful if you know of any workers in the field of primary care computing who are coming to Beijing and who may be interested in taking part in such a workshop. If so, I would be grateful for their names and addresses so that I may contact them. I would need this information by the end of February.

- b. We are planning an international conference on primary care computing in the U.K. in April 1990. I enclose some leaflets and would be grateful if you could circulate them to anyone who may be interested in your own country.

Thank you very much for your help.

Best wishes,

Yours sincerely,

Dr. Glyn M. Hayes
