I European Conference on Computers in Nursing

May 22nd-23rd 1997
Barcelona, Spain

Ciutat Sanitària i Universitària de Bellvitge

Institut Català de la Salut
The evolution of the caring requirements, technological advances, patients' severity degree, short stays, and the costs of the processes, necessarily involve the establishment of new working systems to allow healthcare professionals to plan, execute and evaluate the care given.

Open and intelligent computer systems allow to accomplish activities with efficiency and low variability rates.

The main goal for this congress is to create a large forum of discussion to share projects and experiences on information systems in the healthcare system.
